

~~ Michelle Whitedove ~~ Blog - MichelleWhitdove.Com

Written May 17th, 2007

2008 Election Political Predictions

By Michelle Whitedove

~ 536 days prior to the election ~

REPUBLICAN PARTY CANDIDATES:

I do not see a republican in office this term.

John H. Cox will run but is going to drop out.

Former Mayor Rudy Giuliani of New York City (Campaign Site)

- He will run a strong race in the beginning and will do well in NY. He will be Hillary's competition. New Yorkers respect him more than Hillary, but are torn because they don't feel that he is strong enough to run the country. When he was mayor he made some mistakes that many still hold against him. And some hold his personal life and opinions against him. He will start out strong as a presidential candidate, but will fade out.

Senator John McCain of Arizona (Campaign Site)

- He will be a front runner. He believes he has a good shot at Presidency. He has a huge ego. John McCain is prejudice so he won't run with Condoleezza Rice if offered to be on the same ticket.

Representative Tom Tancredo (Campaign Site)

- He is strong contender and will try to stick it out till the last minute, but won't be President or VP

Former Governor Tommy Thompson of Wisconsin (Campaign Site)

- This guy is so full of crap, not only is he a liar but he's against everything that the people want. This guy has no conscious; he's a total fake & phony.

Former Governor Mike Huckabee of Arkansas (Campaign Site)

- He has not announced it yet but he will run for President. He likes Al Gore and later they will work together.

Former Senator and actor Fred Thompson

- He may try to run because of his big overblown ego, but he will drop right out. This is a mean man.

Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice

- Rice is super intelligent and currently she speaks on behalf of Bush and Cheney. I believe that Cheney will die, thus furthering Rice's role in the government before the 2008 elections. For the Election, Rice is the ace in the pocket for the Republican party. Condi has not announced her run as of yet but when her party sees that Hillary is ahead in the media and polls they will announce that Rice will run. In their minds, if a woman can be forerunner...then they will add another in the mix. But know this, Rice is a puppet for the dark side and would be a nightmare in office. When I look inside her soul, she's a monster, and a cunning liar, with NO regard for humanity. Rice stands for war, evil and the downfall of the country. She will NOT become president.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY CANDIDATES:

Senator Joe Biden No chance to become President

Representative Dennis Kucinich, He's full of malarkey, not strong enough.

Former Vice President Al Gore (Official Site)

- He is thinking about entering the race but wavering. He wants a sure bet, his ego cannot stand another blow like the last stolen election. He has the backing of millions since "An Inconvenient Truth" was released. I see him appointed to a position in the white house, with possible ties to Obama. But he should stick to saving the environment... that is his true calling and where humanity needs his efforts.

Former Senator John Edwards (Campaign Site)

- He's a strong candidate, could go all the way and will be a front runner. He's truly a good man, but not politically savvy enough yet to be president. I believe he will run as VP on Hillary's ticket.

Senator Barack Obama (Campaign Site)

- He's a good person but America is not fully accepting of his vision. He will pull a majority of the African American votes and will be a strong front runner at first. I see a strong start, weak finish. In the end his party will not support him as their frontrunner on the ballot. Could end up on the ticket as a VP but doubtful.

Senator Hillary Rodham Clinton (Campaign Site)

- She will have the support to run as the Democrats choice for President. She has been preparing working hard and has the low down and dirt on all the politicians. Hillary has collected and documented scandalous information on her peers, she's been waiting for this moment to use their dirty laundry as leverage to get what she wants. She's off the charts smart, & calculating, and has her ducks in a row. Personal politics: She's for the environment and social medicine. Truly for the people and creating a better USA. She has what it takes to help turn this country around. She's not the greatest human being....she will do anything to get what she wants. She feels that the END always justifies the MEANS. Mark my words Hillary WILL BE America's first woman president as I have predicted this for years.

GREEN PARTY CANDIDATES:

Ralph Nader of Connecticut

- He has not announced it yet but he will run again but wont get anywhere. He just loves the attention and wants to take away votes from the democrats.

Former Representative Cynthia McKinney

- I do see her running. She's a strong candidate for the green party, but she wont have enough support and will drop out. Good person with a strong voice though and she will get a message out.

LIBERTARIAN PARTY CANDIDATES:

Mike Jingoian of Oregon (Campaign Site)

- His intentions are well & good. Everyone likes what this guy says but he doesn't have enough financial backing, he would be my first choice for this party. He will fall out due to the lack of financial support.

Christine Smith of Colorado (Campaign Site)

- She's a strong contender for this party but she won't be taken seriously. No one in this party will get any where.

INDEPENDANT PARTY CANDIDATES:

James H. McCall of Ohio (Campaign Site)

- This guy is very intelligent, for this party he is the most knowledgeable and fair but not enough support to go the distance..

John Taylor Bowles of South Carolina

- This guy is a White Supremacist. He will get no where, the people are too smart for that. He'll just talk a big talk. He's full of hot air.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg of New York City

- He doesn't have enough credentials or political clout to run, he couldn't do the job as President. It's only talk that he will be running as an Independent even though he's Republican. He will not be able to run.

THE FINAL RESULT:

2008 President will be a Democrat

The Main Contenders ~ As I see it

Looking into the future, there is still waffling going on with the final ballots. Seeing into time and space is tricky. There are two strong scenarios BUT it doesn't really matter because the outcome will be the same.... the Democrats will win.

Democrat's will back:

Hillary Rodham Clinton running as President / WINNER - first female President -

John Edwards as Vice President

Republican's will back:

For President John McCain or Rudy Giuliani

For Vice President Rudy Giuliani or Condoleezza Rice

In love and Light, Michelle Whitedove

<<<BLOG